DEDICATION

Mr. Paul A. Hopkins

Although Andover High School is comprised of many people, you, Mr. Hopkins, have made a special effort to become involved with every individual, not merely matching faces with names, but taking a genuine interest in each person.

All three classes have benefited from their association with you. You instruct sophomores in Biology I, you are the Junior Class Advisor, and you teach Biology II and Anatomy & Physiology to the seniors.

It is in recognition of both your fine teaching and close friendship with this graduating class that we dedicate to you, Mr. Paul Hopkins, the 1954 yearbook.

*"Raise high
roof beam,

AFS

AFS president, Dan Innes, in Lombez with his host grandparents.

Thanks to AFS, I was to experience a whole year in a new country, among new surroundings, sharing ideas, knowledge, and experiences with new people and doing and seeing things for the first time. I thought I knew a considerable deal about the United States, as I had read and heard about it. But I found myself having a really good time when I followed the piece of advice constantly given by AFS—"Forget everything you have heard about the U.S. and find out what it is like yourself." I made quite a lot of friends which was my greatest success. Andover High is a great school and I am grateful to the school for accepting me. AFS International and the Local Chapters did fine in finding a family with whom I could fit in and feel at home. I enjoyed being with the Inneses and having Dan for my AFS brother. I am grateful to AFS International, the Local Chapter, the school club, and the community for raising funds for the scholarship. The people who helped to make my year a success are numerous. To all of them I want to say, "Thank you so much."

Last summer, two students from A.H.S. went abroad on the AFS International Scholarship Program. Dan Innes lived on a farm in the small village of Lombez in southern France. During his stay he visited Paris and other historic places as well as went hiking in the Alps.

Terry Bartow lived with a family in Barbados, West Indies and spent some time in the warm waters, spearfishing.

They both experienced a summer amongst people with a way of life quite different from their own, and came back richer in knowledge, experience, and remembrances.

A major purpose of education is to provide young people with experiences that will aid them in making the difficult adjustment into adulthood. The athletic program at Andover High School is designed to serve this purpose and, in my judgment, serves it well. It is true that athletic contests provide physical fitness, recreation and spectator enjoyment both for students and the community. This is all well and good, but in itself would not justify the time, effort and money spent on our program. It is the educational value of athletics that justifies its inclusion in our school system.

If one were to try to analyze just what athletics is all about—the key word would be success. Is this not, in reality, the main goal of education? Is it not our primary goal that each individual student make a success out of his or her life?

Success does not necessarily mean materialistic success, although that may legitimately be the goal of some. To some, success may well come in the form of helping others or in achieving self-fulfillment. Regardless of what an individual's goal in life might be, one truth we can all count on is that success is not going to come without a great deal of hard work and sacrifice. Telling young people this is not enough, they must experience it and there is no better way than through athletics. We may be living in an "instant success—something for nothing" society, but such values are a myth. If you want anything out of life you are going to have to work for it and if you do not experience this when you are young, it is going to be very difficult facing reality when you get older. Don't ever let anyone attempt to fool you otherwise on this point.

Some in our society today have come to believe there is something evil in competition. One would not argue the point if dishonest competition were involved, but repeating what has already been said here, we can not justify athletics at Andover without integrity. We happen to live in a competitive world. The only acceptable form of government for a free people must be a competitive one. Elections are what democracy is all about and the more competitive they become the more responsive our government will be to the will of the people. A surgeon with a seriously ill patient on the table is competing for that patient's life. A social worker laboring in the slums of a city competes every day against the forces of injustice. Trial by jury is a competitive process, does anyone know of a better way to find justice when a crime has been committed? Those who really want to help their brothers had better learn to compete and compete fairly when they are young. Talk, protest, and demanding things of others is cheap. Those who really want to improve the world must become leaders in our society. The way to do this is to experience as young people those things that will help you to become leaders as adults. It is not suggested here that athletics is the only way to do this, but experience shows it is an extremely good way.

Athletics teaches young people to work with others. The good athlete must learn to put his or her own interests second to those of the team. Great teams learn to cooperate and work together for a common goal. Unselfishness is absolutely essential to athletic success. It is suggested here that this is an extremely worthwhile value for young people to learn. Can it be argued that society as a whole and Andover High School in particular could not profit from more of it?

What has been said here may well fall on deaf ears. No one can argue that the values of athletics, only a few of which have been mentioned in this article, can not be realized in other ways. Having been a teacher and coach in the Andover system for twelve years, however, I am firmly convinced that any student who becomes involved with any team in our program and dedicates himself or herself to its success, is going to be a better person as a result. Again I repeat, isn't this what education is all about?

The Golden Warriors finished the season with a 3-6 record. The entire team showed great spirit in spite of their high loss record. Frustrating to everyone on the team were the many losses by only a few points. The games proved very exciting and kept the crowds in the stands through the end of the games despite the cold weather. The Warriors showed good teamwork throughout the games, even with their many crippling injuries.

Mr. William Vickers
Senate Chairman

Submitted by a committee led by Mr. Wilbur Hixon, to the students of Andover High School in the spring of 1970 as a way of eliminating some of the long-standing problems of the old government, the new Student-Faculty Government was adopted by a large majority.

The Student-Faculty Government is divided into two parts: the Area Government and the Senate. Each Area consists of all homerooms in the Business, English, Foreign Language, Math, Science, and Social Studies Departments. Each homeroom elects two representatives to its Area government, one permanent and one rotating. Each Area then elects three permanent representatives and one faculty member to the Senate. Thus, the Senate consists of twenty-four members; eighteen students and six teachers.

Establishing procedures and acclimating all high school members to the new form of government became the first accomplished step. With the initiation of a Snack Bar, the Government produced concrete evidence of its effectiveness in working with students, faculty, and administrators. Now that the basic problems have been solved concerning the mechanics of the government, many new projects are being probed.

S. A. C.

SAC's greatest concern this year has been to establish a Drop-In Center for Andover youth. Having been denied the Fire Station which they had previously used, SAC is currently involved in restoring the McCardle house on Central Street. The numerous fund raising drives for this purpose have included showing movies to youngsters, sponsoring a basketball game between the high school students and the police, holding car washes, and selling candles. Many donations from private individuals have also been received.

Many other SAC members have been involved with the varied programs which SAC offers, such as its Steering Committee, its Ski Club and Team, its Surf Club and Team, its Communications Workshop, and its Dance Committee.

ALLAGASH TRIP

In the spring of 1970, a group of nine students and adults hiked, canoed, and portaged along the Allagash Trail in Maine. Equipped with huge and heavy back-packs, full of food, utensils, clothing and mosquito repellent, the group forged its way through the wilderness. The Ranger's cabin which the group strove on to as their destination, is on Mount Allagash and inaccessible except by air.

The trip provided experience in canoeing and portaging as well as camping and hiking. It was entirely planned by members of the group and several teachers went along on the first day. The trip was both exciting and educational, and, in the words of one participant, "It was a lot of fun, and we learned a lot too. . . . A real good experience."

DECISIONS UNLIMITED

Decisions Unlimited is a group of about fifty students who are concerned about drugs. This year the club had a training session with four speakers in the fall.

The "community group" of Decisions Unlimited consists of those students who are interested in the preventative side of the drug program. They go to the fifth through ninth grades of the Andover Public Schools to teach the pros and cons of drug use, leaving the ultimate decision up to the individual.

The "inner school" group deals with school policies in drug situations. There are many programs related to the inner school project.

First organized last year, the club got underway this year and proved to be a great success.

*"So let out your heart, please, please
From behind that locked door.
It's time we start smiling
What else should we do?"*

GEORGE HARRISON

"Time it was,
And what a time it was.
It was . . .
A time of innocence,
A time of confidences.

Long ago . . . it must be . . .
I have a photograph.
Preserve your memories;

The future arrives sooner at Raytheon.

When you work at the forefront of technology, you work on "tomorrow" every day.

That's what we do at Raytheon. With amazing results. For example, Radarange® microwave ovens for the home. A miniature furnace the size of a two-pound coffee can. Motionless radars that "see" everywhere at once.

Our facilities stretch around the world. And our activities extend from space exploration to pollution control.

Raytheon. The company that makes things happen.
